

50 CONTD.

PAUL

Not him.

DANIELS blanches at the thought of being left behind.

DANIELS

Hang about ... I mean, it wasn't my fault, I

BARRY

(relenting)
Oh, might as well.DANIELS breathes a sigh of relief as the SERGEANT lets him past the desk.

SERGEANT

Come on then, let's have you ...

The SERGEANT starts herding the others back towards the cell - including ANGIE who has been standing behind STOKER.

ANGIE

(pointedly)
Barry?51 SCENES DELETED
5251
52

53 EXT. ELECTRICAL SHOP - BACK-YARD. DAY.

53

RUSSELL works with his father, MR. HAYES, in the small yard at the back of the shop, off-loading a consignment of televisions for repair.

BARRY and ANGIE wander over with cocky assurance.

BARRY

'afternoon, Mr. Hayes.

MR. HAYES

(to ANGIE) Hello luv ...MR. HAYES nods an unwelcoming gesture at BARRY as he carries a television into the shop.
RUSSELL sees them coming, but says nothing and continues off-loading TV's from the van. BARRY senses an uneasy atmosphere and takes a pound from his pocket.